480 American Soldiers on British Troop Ship When She Was Hit

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, May 25.—The war department today gave out the names of 53 men who are missing from the torpedoed British steamer Moldavia.

The Moldavia carried 480 American soldiers of the 58th infantry. All those reported lost, including seven Illinois men, belonged to B Company.

Two Were Drowned
By Associated Press Leased Wire
London, May 25.—Less than a quarter of an hour after the British armed troop ship with American troops aboard had been torpedoed on the southeast coast of England, Thursday morning, virtually every man had gone over the sides of the vessel into the lifeboats.

Edwin and Clyde Bosley, of North Troy, Vermont, brothers, leaped from the deck of the ship and were drowned. Had it not been for this less, given officially as 56 American soldiers, would have been confined to those killed by the explosion of the torpedo.

The Bosley brothers were on guard when the ship was struck. The ship listed sharply and they evidently believed she was turning over. A search was made for them, but they were not seen after they jumped.

Captain Tells Story
Captain Johnson, an American infantry officer who was on board the Moldavia, made the following statement of the affair:

"The ship was struck just forward of the engines, on the port side. All the troops were in their bunks, asleep, with their uniforms on. There was a loud explosion

LITTLE CIRCLE OF OLD THIRTEENTH ALL THAT REMAIN OF 1400 MEN

Fifteen Old Warriors Met to Celebrate Anniversary of Mustering In

WAS A FINE MEETING

Veterans Pronounced Yesterday's Reunion One of Best in History

Backward, turn backward, O Time, in thy flight, Make me a boy again so I can fight; Give me the muscles I had in my youth, So I can fight again, for right and truth.

The above verse from a short poem by Comrade C. W. Lewis of Westgate, Ia., read at the camp fire which closed the annual reunion of the Thirtieth Illinois Infantry in this city last evening, reflected the spirit of the surviving boys of the famous old fighting unit which did such valiant service in the trying days of the Rebellion. Every one of the veterans exhibited more interest in the great conflict now raging "over there" than they did in talking over their own experiences of danger, sacrifice and hardship.

When President C. H. Noble of Dixon called the veterans together, at 2 o'clock, Friday afternoon, fifteen of the surviving 100 members—all that are left of 1400 who were mustered into the Union army 57 years ago yesterday—were present. They drew their chairs close up about the president's and secretary's desk, presenting a pathetic picture of time marches steadily on, exacting its toll with pitiless inconsistency.

SELECT MEN HERE IN ANSWER TO SUMMONS

NINETY-FIVE MEN WILL LEAVE ON MONDAY MORNING FOR CAMP GORDON.

The 125 Lee county select men, from whom will be drawn the 95 men summoned to the colors in the next call for soldiers, met at the court house at 2 o'clock this afternoon as per their orders and received their instructions. The company, the exact personnel of which will not be known until Monday morning, will leave on a special train on the I. C. at 9 o'clock Monday morning and will go direct to Camp Gordon, Georgia.

HAVE YOU DONE YOUR SHARE?

Chicago, May 24, 1918.
Editor The Telegraph,
Dixon, Ill.

A large share of our boys taking part in the French battle, with the big expansion of the army here, make extraordinary demands upon the Red Cross which were unforeseen last winter when the one hundred million dollar call was issued. Will you urge people to go the limit in oversubscribing quotas, in order that the Red Cross may meet the situation adequately?

BERNARD E. SUNNY,
Campaign Director, Central Div.

The foregoing telegram explains what the Red Cross wants. It is up to the people of this county to respond to it.

A Dixon man, who has a boy in France, fighting with the American Army, received a letter from him which said, in part:

"Dad, remember that whenever you give to the Red Cross, you are giving to me," and he went on to describe the wonderful things the Red Cross does for the soldier boy—the cheering, the watching over, the doctoring and nursing, and all the other equally important activities. And that boy's father realizes the value of the Red Cross, and he is not only giving his money freely, but his time as well in the labor of the cause.

The great need in Lee County is for every man and woman to give his or her proportionate share toward the Red Cross. Then the fund will be ample. The next thing is for everyone in Lee County who has paid his share, and who can afford to do more, to do so. Let Lee County heavily oversubscribe her Red Cross quota.

Lee County is sending her boys to battle. She surely will send the comparatively small amount of money after them to care for them and bring them safely home.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, May 25.—The reply of Theodore Roosevelt to Postmaster General Burleson in their controversy was presented to the senate today by Senator Poindexter. The reply charged that the administration played for and against different newspapers and magazines and that President Wilson was directly responsible. The administration, Roosevelt declared, condoned the anti-anti attitude of certain publications, while it embarrassed those carrying honest criticism of the conduct of the war.

BAKER PLANS TO LET OLDER MEN SERVE IN ARMY BEHIND LINES

Would Raise Enlistment Limit From 40 to 55 Yrs. in the Army

RELEASE YOUNG MEN

Many Thousands of Older Men Could Be Used Behind the Front Lines

Washington, D. C., May 24.—Another move toward full utilization of the country's man power was made today when Secretary Baker sent to congress the draft of a bill proposing to raise the maximum age limit for voluntary enlistment in the army from 40 to 55 years. All men over 40 so enlisted would be assigned to noncombatant service.

In a letter to Speaker Clark asking that the bill be pushed, Secretary Baker said:

"Every man above the age of 40 years who is enlisted in noncombatant branches of the service will make available for duty with the line troops a man within the prescribed age limit for all troops.

Mechanics and Artisans
"Many men whose long experience as mechanics and artisans will make them particularly valuable to the various staff corps and departments may be thus secured instead of younger men without such experience, and the efficiency of the staff corps and the departments thus will be increased."

There probably are 7,500,000 men between the ages of 40 and 55, and many thousands of them already have attested their desire to serve by volunteering for the department with applications. While the great majority of the men in this class undoubtedly will be restrained from enlisting by family and business ties, the number at liberty to join the colors is expected to be more than sufficient.

Service of the Rear
Staff corps positions include many duties behind the front. Every headquarters unit includes a number of positions for which the older men would be just as well suited as the present occupants who, under the new plan, would be released for line duty.

Official estimates are that a modern army to be maintained as an efficient unit must have between 40 and 45 per cent of its actual strength on duty between the fighting zone. This means that of the first 1,000,000 men sent to France, 400,000 serve along the line of communication, in hospitals or at the various headquarters and debarkation bases.

Would Add 3,000,000
The senate military committee today unanimously went on record in favor of a large expansion of the American army. It ordered a favorable report on a resolution by Senator Reed of Missouri declaring for an increase of 3,000,000 men.

By the resolution "the president is authorized in his discretion and at such time as he may determine to raise and begin the training of an additional force of 3,000,000 men, who are to be called for training at such times and in such numbers as the president may direct."

The house military committee already has added to the army bill an administration provision giving unlimited authority to the president to raise an army of whatever size is needed.

Woe for Idlers
The far reaching character of the new "work or fight" regulations under which the government proposes to put every man of draft age into some useful employment or into the army probably will not be fully realized by the country until the effects of its operation appear in every community.

The new regulations probably will be more and more closely applied as the war goes on or until it becomes necessary to raise the draft age above 21. Military authorities are of the opinion now that it will not be necessary to raise the draft age and that the man power of the nation is sufficient if those now of draft age are fully utilized.

EVERY TOWNSHIP IN LEE COUNTY MUST BE IN HONOR LIST SOON

County Committee to Continue Drive Until Quotas Are All Reached

DIXON TOTAL IS $11,800

Encouraging Reports Are Received From a Number of Rural Towns

"OVER THE TOP!"
DIXON
MARION
REYNOLDS
HAMILTON

Each township in Lee county MUST deliver its quota to the Red Cross war fund unless its good people wish the soldier boys that go from each community to know that the people back home do not care whether they get the necessary comforts and aid on the battlefield and in the camps.

The instructions have gone out to every township committeeman that he drive must continue until each township joins Dixon, the only township in the county yet in the honor roll. Even if it takes all summer the Lee county committee is determined that the quota of $37,500 shall be raised. Therefore it is up to the good people who wish to maintain the good name the community has gained in all former drives.

Dixon Total Over $11,000
Continued subscriptions at Red Cross headquarters in Dixon this week have brought the total to approximately $11,800—a remarkable result, an done which should prove an inspiration to the other towns in the county.

Some towns are making very encouraging reports, and it is believed that tonight will find the following over the top:

South Dixon, Viola, Wyoming, Harmon, Willow Creek, China, Amboy, Palmyra.

May and Sublette reports show approximately 80 per cent of their quotas raised, and they will doubtless meet the required figure.

In Alto, Reynolds, Nachusa and Bradford the committees are working hard and feel confident of success when the people are thoroughly aroused.

No reports have been received from East Grove, Nelson or Hamilton, and unless these townships make good today special committees will have to be put to work there next week.

Cuba's Action in Withholding Sugar at U. S. Request Resented

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Mexico has severed diplomatic relations with Cuba, recalling the Mexican representative to Cuba and suspending for an indefinite time the sending of a new representative. It is explained officially at Mexico City that it is due to the fact that because of the war in which Cuba is involved with this country it has been obliged to dictate measures which affect and interfere with the Mexican government in many instances.

The state department at Washington has received information through its own sources that the Mexican diplomatic representatives in Havana, Cuba, have been withdrawn by Mexico, but no explanation is given.

Official confirmation from the Cuban government is lacking, but it is reported that there have been rumors in Havana of strained relations between the two governments.

Exports Stopped

The first reading of the statement issued by the Mexican foreign minister giving the reasons for the recall of its representatives conveyed the distinct impression that in breaking off relations, the Mexican government actually expressed resentment and displeasure at the withholding of Cuban sugar and other supplies.

SAGE AND SULPHUR DARKENS GRAY HAIR

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Restore Color, Gloss and Attractiveness.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, at a small cost.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire dark hair and a youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

Martello Tower.

A martello tower is a round structure, usually of stone, about 40 feet in height, with walls of great thickness and strength, and situated on a beach or on the bank of a river. It is so called from the Italian towers built as a protection against the pirates who infested the Mediterranean in ancient times and during the middle ages.

Warning of the approach of pirates or other enemies was given by the garrison on guard in the tower by striking a bell with a hammer, or martello. Hence the towers were called in Italian "Torri da Martello." Several very fine Martello towers formed part of the old stone fortifications of Kingston, Ont., of which Fort Henry was the principal work. Of course, the stone works are now obsolete as fortifications against modern guns, but several of the towers, both there and at Quebec, have been preserved and put in a state of repair. They add a picturesque element to Kingston's beautiful lake front.

Fiske's High Opinion of Huxley.

In the biography of John Fiske it is related that on his visits to England he formed a hearty friendship with Huxley. In one of his letters home he thus wrote of him: "I am quite wild over Huxley. He is as handsome as an Apollo. His photograph doesn't begin to do him justice. I never before saw such magnificent eyes. They are black, and his face expresses an eager, burning intensity and there is none of that self-satisfied smirk that has crept into his picture. He seems earnest—immensely in earnest—and thoroughly frank and cordial and modest. And, by Jove, what a pleasure it is to meet such a clean-cut mind! It is like Saladin's sword, which cut through the cushion. . . . After tea, Huxley and I retired to his study, which is the coziest I have seen in England, and had a smoke and the very best talk I have ever had. Words can't describe what a glorious fellow he is."

The Truth.

The truth is that something everybody wants on his side when trouble comes. You may not be overly well acquainted with it before you need it, but that makes no difference. Truth is the thing that lasts when other things vanish. Those who know claim that "truth is conformity of representation to fact." There is more or less of it in the world. Its prevalence depends upon the company you keep. In some circles men try to keep away from truth because they are aiming at unjust gains. Some throttle personal opinion to fawn before reputed greatness. They are not concerned about what they are. It's what they want to be that keeps them thinking. And their thinking is purely of gain. To handle money, to exercise authority, to be looked upon as successful seems to be their chief goal. But if they only knew it the truth is the best way to attain it.

Why Zinc is "Jack."

Have you often wondered why zinc is called "Jack" and Joplin is called the "town that Jack built"? So have we. Here is the answer, from the American Lead and Zinc Journal: The question is asked why zinc blende is called "Jack" in the Joplin region. Old-time miners of this region first called it "Jack" in derision in the early days of lead mining, when a dark substance, which was unknown to them, was found in large quantities in connection with lead which they were then mining in the camps of Joplin, Granby and Galena. This dark substance was an impediment to the mining of lead and was much despised by the early miners, who did not appreciate its value and did not know it was zinc blende of a high grade. It was then called "Jack," or "black Jack," and the name "Jack" has clung to every kind of zinc blende ever since.

Lindley Murray.

Lindley Murray was a noted Anglo-American grammarian, who lived from 1745 to 1826. He was born at Swatara, Pa. In 1784, at the age of thirty-nine years, he settled in England, and it was there that he compiled and published his English grammar and English spelling book that gave him considerable prominence in his own time and for which he is remembered today. For many years these were the textbooks used in the majority of English schools. His English home was at Holdgate, about a mile from the city of York, and it was there that he did his literary work. His grammar has been severely criticized for its obscurity, blunders and deficient presentation of etymology, but it made his name a household word in every country where the English language is spoken. His later years were devoted to the study of botany.

The Hicks Boys' Failure.

"Many a man has established himself in a modest way in his chosen business and by frugality and industry built it up to enviable proportions," said the Old Codger. "And then when he took his sons in with him the boys grew chummy over what they thought they could do if the old man would only get out of their way. Sometimes they made good and upon other occasions they didn't. As long as the Rev. Irl R. Hicks, manufacturer of plain and fancy weather, was in the harness, we knew exactly what to expect. But look at the sort of weather we have been having lately. The Hicks boys are falling down badly since the old man dropped out."—Kansas City Star.

Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Bieschke were morning passengers for Aurora on Monday after spending Sunday at the home of her sister, Mrs. A. B. McCreary and family.

Vernie Olson of Scarboro was here Wednesday.

Two representatives of the National Meter company of Cleveland were here on Wednesday looking after their meters which the village has purchased of their concern for the new water system.

John Fassig was in Compton on Saturday where he attended a meeting of township officers.

John C. Horton was a business visitor here on last Wednesday from Compton.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Biggart and James Biggart motored out from Rockford on Saturday and spent Sunday at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Biggart. James left for Dixon on Wednesday where he was one of the alternates but was sent home to be one of the 95 who will be sent next Monday.

An auditor from the branch headquarters at Aurora was here on Friday and checked out Mr. Davis who has been acting as station agent for the past three months. Mr. Florian Walter has been installed as agent here permanently and immediately took charge of the office. Since the resignation of John Terhune there has been much difficulty in getting an agent who would accept the position and now that we have one who makes his home here we will not be bothered with changing of agents every few weeks.

F. W. Meyer has leased the west half of the basement of the bank building and has taken steps to install a rug and linoleum display room owing to the shortage of floor space in his store.

The various committees were at work on Wednesday decorating and making other preparations for the big Red Cross day which will follow the next day.

Mr. and Mrs. Roman Ege welcomed a baby boy to their home on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Eri B. Conbhear of Lee Center were here Thursday shopping.

Amel Bresson and son of Ashton were in town on Friday and spent a short time with old friends. Mr. Bresson reports liking his new home first rate.

Ray Leake and helper are here this week from Amboy installing a furnace in the residence of Edward Henry.

Dr. White motored to Dixon on Wednesday on business pertaining to his profession.

Thursday was the big Red Cross sale and celebration for the benefit of the local unit. The girls were busy tagging the crowd while at the opera house States Attorney Edwards gave a patriotic address followed by a program rendered by the school district. The Elks quartet was also on the job and gave several musical numbers.

Governor and Mrs. Lowden presented a silk handkerchief which the ladies sold at public auction and it brought a handsome price. Auctioneer Webber donated his part by crying the sale and inducing the people that the value of the article was not to be considered but the cause which it represented. To date the net amount of the proceeds is not determined but it is hoped that sufficient funds will be secured to avoid the launching of the national drive.

Mrs. Christ Dinger was here from Sterling and spent the week end visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Bernardin.

The local applicants for the rural mail routes have all received notifications to the effect that the examination will be held here on next Saturday.

Claude and Albert Gehant, Elliot Henry and Floyd Arndt, also Dr. White and F. D. Gehant motored to Mendota on Monday and thence to Chicago where the four young boys presented themselves before the recruiting officers for service in the national army. Elliot Henry and Albert Gehant were the only two of the lads who passed the physical examination and were ordered to report within the next three days. The other two boys lacked weight and were sent home in the hopes of fattening up in time to be sent along with the other boys. They all made application for the medical department of the army.

Mrs. Louise Wigum of Congress Park is here visiting with friends and relatives.

The readers of the News will be glad to read an interesting letter received from Sergeant R. White, son of Dr. and Mrs. White of this village and who is now with the medical base hospital in France.

why a true blue American citizen can longer stay out of the first and render some good service when if they only knew, as we do, the worthiness of the cause and the things at stake.

Our boys are sure making a great showing in the sector which they are protecting, and this is proving to be a very lively place. I am now but a few short kilometers from the front lines, still with the same field hospital unit I came over with nearly six months ago. By the way, I chanced to run across an old football opponent of mine when we were both in the Paw Paw high. His name is Gilden and his home is DeKalb and he is a good kid. We are going to get Mr. Hohenzollern ourselves some of these dark nights when we move toward the old beast's cage.

The wounds from shot and shell are bad enough but it sure makes one's blood boil from the liquid fire wounds witnessed and to see brave and patient the wounded you could hardly believe your eyes and to think they are doing all for Uncle Sam. The work and relief of the Red Cross is a Godsend. We will see that one so barbaric to use such methods of warfare as the enemy are guilty of will get a he has coming if it takes one year or ten years longer for us to reach of Berlin.

I would like to see the good of States again, but do not want to return until this thing is finished and every Hun is swatted as you would say. Enclosed you have found some souvenirs which I took from some of the German prisoners. I have a great collection of larger ones, too, with the name, date and address of an identification disc of a private and the other is a shoulder strap taken from a lieutenant's uniform denoting that he belonged to the 47th battalion by the number.

One thing I do enjoy is to receive the West Brooklyn News and to think that Hap Gehant is now the editor. I receive a great many papers of them although they are late. Let them keep coming and also have all the folks at home write, as I enjoy knowing what is going on and to find that many of the boys are now on the way to the front. Write soon and often.

Your loving son,
CLARENCE.

Banquet at Grandy.

The banquet of the Junior and Senior classes of the Dixon high school, given at the Sheffield hotel in Grand Detour last evening, was a very delightful affair. Eighty-six participated, some going in the Hill and Espy boats while others went in automobiles. Beside the classes the faculty were present and three guests from out of town, Miss Downer, a former teacher, who taught the past year in Prophetstown, one of her pupils, Miss Fann, and Mr. Early of Chicago. Miss Downer and Miss Fann were the guests of Miss Orleana Newcomer for the night. After the banquet, flowers of many kinds decorating the table, repair was made to the Illini hall where dancing was enjoyed, the Triangle orchestra furnishing the music. George Schuler, the Senior class president, in behalf of the Junior and Senior classes because of special assistance in the Junior play and with the Senior annual, presented Miss Ashton with a handsome umbrella.

Beister-McCann.

Miss Charlotte McCann, daughter of Mrs. Catherine McCann, formerly of Dixon and now of Chicago, and Frederick Beister, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Beister, a prominent family living in Sublette, were united in marriage at high noon at Ottawa on May 23rd. The bride was becomingly attired in a suit of blue twilled moire with hat to match and carried a white prayer book. After the ceremony, which was witnessed by a few intimate friends, the bridal pair left on the evening train for a brief visit in the east, visiting Chicago, New York and Coldwater, Mich. Mr. and Mrs. Beister will reside in a new bungalow recently built by the groom on his large farm near Sublette. The bride before her marriage was a popular school teacher, having taught in the rural schools a number of years. The best wishes of many friends are accorded both Mr. Beister and his bride.

Haynes-Monahan

The marriage of Miss Cleo M. Monahan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Monahan of 629 North Crawford avenue, and Francis F. Haynes, son of Mrs. Wm. Haynes of Chicago was solemnized at nuptial mass this morning at 8:30 o'clock at St. Vincent's Catholic church, Chicago, by the Rev. Fr. Francis Monahan. Miss Ethel Haynes, sister of the groom, and Roy V. Monahan, the bride's brother, of Chicago attended them. A wedding breakfast was served at the LaSalle. After a brief visit in Chicago they will return to Dixon to reside.

Of the ceremony the bride was prettily attired in gray tulle with the costume accessories, hat, etc., in white. Killarney roses and valley lilies, arranged in a showed bouquet were carried.

The bride completed her studies with a business course at the Coppins Commercial college. Mr. Haynes is an assistant in the Nettz garage. Both are popular and excellent young people and have many friends who wish them all happiness.

Two Ashton Weddings.

The second wedding within a few days in the Roessler family occurred Saturday morning at St. Patrick's Catholic church in Rochelle when Miss Margaret Roessler, daughter of Postmaster and Mrs. Jos. A. Roessler, was united in marriage to St. Monroe Wolfe. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Fr. Burke in the presence of a large number of friends and relatives.

The bride was becomingly dressed in a tan suit with hat to match. The groom's suit was blue serge. The bridal couple were attended by Miss Gertrude Empey as bridesmaid and Bernhart Empey as groomsmen.

Following the wedding the guests went to the Collier Inn hotel where a wedding breakfast was served. The bride has always resided here and is a graduate of the high school and until recently was assistant post master under her father. Mr. and Mrs. Wolfe left for Pennsylvania on their wedding trip to visit the former's parents. Mr. Wolfe expects to join the colors soon.

Last Saturday occurred a quiet wedding, when Miss Sara Batchelor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Batchelor and Raymond E. Losey, a former business man, were united in marriage at the court house in Chicago by Justice Johnson. They came to Ashton in the evening and on Sunday a family dinner was enjoyed at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Louis Sindlinger. The best wishes of a host of friends are extended to the young couple for a happy future.

Weyant, all of Dixon; Mrs. Aaron Fluck of Nelson, assistant secretary; Miss Ina Lapp of Harmon; Ira Buck, missionary superintendent; Ira Lehman and Ira Trostle off of Franklin Grove.

The convention, which was held in several of the Peoria churches, the chief addresses being given in the large new Methodist church which seated 1800, was very largely attended and is conceded to be one of the best state conventions ever held. Among the treats were the addresses given by Miss Margaret Slattery of Boston, one of the greatest public speakers and orators of her sex. Prof. E. O. Exell led the singing and Alvin Roper acted as pianist, these two adding greatly to the pleasure of the convention.

Elks Children's Party.

Anyone passing the corner of Ottawa avenue and Second street last evening would have thought the Pied Piper of Hamelin had been piping, to see the children there, but it was something far more interesting to the children than that—it was the Elks' annual children's party, and there was at least 250 children gathered in the clubhouse yard to dance about the Maypole under the direction of Miss Stackpole, a member of the committee on entertainment, and later to go indoors where all sorts of pretty forms of entertainment was provided by the Elks house committee and the assistant committees of ladies, the entertainment committee which consisted of Mrs. Schuler, Mrs. A. A. Roland, Mrs. Charles Miller, Mrs. Leland, Mrs. Thompson and Miss Stackpole, and the refreshment committee, of which Mrs. E. J. Decker was the chairman and the other members, Miss Edna Decker, Mesdames Fred and Harry Stephan, Mrs. Hoefler and Mrs. Harry Roe.

Among the pretty features of the evening were the solo dance given by little Miss Eudora Countryman, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Countryman, and the Gypsy dance given by Misses Katherine Durkes and Henrietta Vail. After these, refreshments of ice cream and candies and cake were served in the dining room. All the decorations were in the national colors and the flags of the allies, even to a handsome Italian flag which was used in the dance hall and came in so appropriately as yesterday was "Italian" day. The ice cream was served in the shape of small torts and each child was provided with a military cap and flag to be worn in the grand march above stairs. At the close of the grand march ribbon confetti in the national colors were given the children and there were thrown on wires strung about the room, adding to the pretty effect already created by the arrangement of flags. Miss Myrtle Rice furnished the music for dancing.

The children who were present are quite satisfied that it was the most delightful and prettiest party. Many out of town children were included among the guests.

War Now Becomes Fight on Plural Marriages

WOMEN who are alive to history in the making, says Winona Wilcox, perceive a horrid threat to the evolution of their sex in recent social developments in Germany.The Prussian war party is quietly favoring polygamy as a means of renewing its man-power for future wars. The plan is not new in Germany.
Before the war, Berlin's illegitimacy birth rate shocked the centers of lesser kultur.Until recently, the American woman has discussed such well known facts with disgust rather than excitement. But now the Prussian, by forcing a new sex slavery upon his own women, is degrading the womanhood of the world, and is thrusting upon women everywhere a special sex struggle.A German pamphlet, as condensed by an English author, says that the kaiser's wise men are advising secondary or lateral marriages "as a religion, as a state policy, as a military measure," to rebuild Prussian armies—for a war after this war.Under the scheme outlined a married man may legally contract secondary or lateral marriages with spinsters and his legal wife is admonished to tolerate the same. The state will rear the children, in case the parents do not care to do so.Evidently the Turk is a civilized and chivalrous gentleman compared to the modern Hun.The Turk at least assumes the support of his plural wives. His harem is designed to protect his children as well as his women.But German kultur is not so tender, so sentimental. Having fulfilled her task, the Hun's secondary wife has no claim upon her lateral husband except that she is entitled to wear a "secondary wedding ring!" Her children are to be raised by the state, the boys for soldiers, the girls for domestics in peace and munitions-makers in wartime.

No equal degradation was ever planned for womankind.

Certainly the American woman never considers any such condition in relation to herself. Too often she is so sure of her own honor under the Stars and Stripes that she lives, day by day, as if no Hun were to be whipped, no Prussian moral code to be revised.And so living, she completely ignores the frightful chance of what would happen to women everywhere were Germany to rule the world.Every woman in America ought to make herself think of the war at least once a day, ought to realize that the stakes of the war include more than national boundaries and indemnities.The armies of the allies are not fighting for democracy only. They are battling for human decency as it is represented by the status of woman.To abhor German polygamy—under any name—is merely a negative kind of virtue. Only the woman who makes some daily sacrifice for the American soldiers is doing her fair share of fighting in behalf of her own sex.

The Off-the-Street Club

IN CHICAGO a Y. M. C. A. secretary worked in a neighborhood where he had ample opportunity to observe the children of the street. Ragged, dirty, friendless, haunting can and bottle strewn vacant lots, living by their wits, seeking saloon entries for warmth, they held an appeal to the young secretary. So he rented two rooms in a small, dingy building, and founded the "Off the Street Club."The club began its career seventeen years ago with an ice cream social, largely attended by a worldly-eyed suspicious throng of cynical youngsters.
But that crowd yielded to friendliness.The Off the Street club has just moved a third time into more spacious quarters. Its present membership is 800, and it is still growing.Nobody preaches to the children. They are simply given a chance to develop the good that their friends believe is in them. Lessons in character building, control of the will, the value of pure living, are by-products of good times and human kindness, mingled with gymnastics classes, a band of forty instruments, a primary club for little tots and other fascinating activities. Who does not approve of that club?

Alcohol as a By-product of Bread

A PROJECT to reduce losses of grain, especially wheat, through greater attention to clean thrashing is the outgrowth of recommendations from various sources and studies which indicate that more than 3 per cent of the wheat crop has in the past been lost by hurried and careless operation, or inefficient thrashing machines.Efforts are now under way to have every thrashing outfit in the United States put in efficient working order and operated in a manner to save every grain of wheat possible. To direct the work a special Thrashing Division has been created as a part of the Food Administration Grain Corporation, with Capt. Kenneth D. Hequembourg, U. S. R., at its head. Capt. Hequembourg has had first hand experience in thrashing operations. The grain thrashing division will have national headquarters at the office of the Food Administration Grain Corporation, 42 Broadway, New York City.

Plan to Reduce Thrashing Losses

THROUGH the seizure of a still in a bakery in New Mexico, where a quantity of alcohol was discovered that had been distilled from bake-oven fumes, considerable discussion has taken place concerning the feasibility of manufacturing alcohol as a by-product of bread.This still was a crudely constructed affair, the vapor from the bread being conducted from the oven into a worm, which was cooled by passing through a barrel of water, condensing the vapor. The baker was not arrested, as it was clearly shown that no evasion of the law was intended.
However, possession of a still is in violation of the law, and this one was seized by the Internal-Revenue Service. This baker states that quantities of alcohol can be manufactured for war use at a very small cost by Army bake shops and bakers in large cities. The practicability of the plan remains to be worked out.

second class.

SUES STERLING PAPER

John Edous, living west of Dixon, has started suit for $5,000 damages
against D. W. Grandon & Sons, publishers of the Sterling Gazette. An article published in the Gazette on August 2, 1917, concerning the theft of copper wire, Edous claims brought humiliation and disgrace to him.

AMUSEMENTS

PRINCESS THEATRE

The Princess Theatre opens today
under the management of W. J.
Crowley of Chicago, an experienced man in the motion picture business.
Mr. Crowley has been busy for the past two weeks in painting and redecorating the theatre. On account of the scarcity of help the improvements have not been completed, but will go on until all the contemplated changes are completed. One improvement the patrons will enjoy is the widening of the space between the rows of seats. The entire east side of the theatre has been changed and the balance will be this week.Picture for this evening is Jane Gray in "Her Fighting Chance," on Sunday Alma Ruebens in "The Gown
of Destiny," and on Monday Charlie Chaplain in "The Count and June
Gail in a Game of Wits."FIFTY-FIVE AMER-ICANS WERE LOST

and then the ship's whistle was blown, which was the signal for everyone to come on deck.The men had been assigned to their particular boats and they had had boat drill every day. The men assembled in perfect order.
Their discipline was the best I ever saw."The Moldavia listed to the port side, but she ran on for about 15 minutes to avoid being hit again, and then she began to sink steadily. The order was given to take to the boats and rafts, and we all got off."Destroyers were circling around us all the time and as soon as the Moldavia was struck they dropped several depth charges. No second torpedo was fired and we saw nothing whatever of the submarine. We remained in the life boats until the ship sank and were then taken aboard the destroyers.

Splendid Spirit

"As soon as the men got aboard the life boats and rafts they were laughing and singing, and when the Moldavia sank they gave three rousing cheers."Of the missing, two were corporals and the others were privates. I believe that all of them were killed by the explosion."London, May 24.—The British armed merchant troopship Moldavia, with American troops on board, has been torpedoed and sunk, according to an official bulletin issued by the admiralty this evening. The admiralty statement follows:"The armed mercantile cruiser Moldavia was torpedoed and sunk yesterday morning."There were no casualties among the crew, but of the American troops on board, 56 up to the present time have not been accounted for.
It is feared they were killed in one compartment by the explosion."Hit Without Warning
The Moldavia was torpedoed without warning. It was a moonlight night, and although a good lookout was kept the attacking submarine was not sighted before the torpedo struck.Most of the men aboard were in their hammocks when the explosion occurred amidships. The sailors and soldiers alike showed no panic.500 Americans Aboard
Washington, D. C., May 24.—More than 500 Americans were aboard the Moldavia, official reports available here tonight showed.It is not possible at this time to give the units to which they belonged. No casualty list has been received from American officials abroad.Maritime records showed that the Moldavia was 9,500 tons gross. It was owned by the Peninsular and Oriental Steam Navigation Company.
It was built at Greenock in 1903 and was 520 feet long.

trol of shipping in the Gulf

Sea was doubtless known to the Mexican authorities, as Cuba is all but in name an ally of the United States.
Any action against Cuba,
even by a neutral country,
must be a matter of serious concern to the United States.

Battle Fronts Quiet

There is no change in the situation on the battle fields of northern France. Both sides continue their raiding operations.The weather has changed
for the worse and it is raining generally on the Somme and Picardy fronts. This imposes an added hardship
on the Germans who occupy the shell torn lowlands while the allies hold the high ground.American airmen now control the sector northwest of Toul and the air squadron is doing good service acting as eyes for the army.

Pershing's Report.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, May 25.—Section B
of General Pershing's report for May 24 reports the death of two American officers, First Lieutenant Walter B. Barney of the Signal Corps, and Second Lieutenant Colby of the U.
S. Marines, resulting from the fall of an airplane. Before they died they were decorated with the war cross.Section A of the report said "There are no new developments to report."

Rickenbacher Scores Again

"Two hostile machines were brought down by Lieutenant Edward Rickenbacher and Lieutenant Buford."In Lorraine on May 21 a hostile airplane, flying over the lines, was disabled and forced to land in its own territory and was there destroyed by our artillery fire, adjusted
by a balloon observer."

Is All American

Washington, May 25.—The Toul sector now is all American. The gunners are American as are the men in the trenches, while over their heads fly other Americans with a distinct insignia on their machines.

Yanks in Italy?

American troops may soon be fighting the Austro-Hungarians in the mountains of northern Italy, according to an announcement by Secretary Baker.

Mexico Rolled

Mexico's sudden and unexpected severance of diplomatic relations with Cuba is looked upon here as a direct move against the United States and may foreshadow a break in the diplomatic relations between the two countries.Not unconnected with the cause of the Mexican action, it is understood here, is a recent incident which happened to Senor Fabela, Mexican minister to Argentina, who, while on his way to Buenos Ayres, was held up in Havana and his baggage searched by an official, supposedly a customs inspector, who, it is reported,
found among his effects certain papers.There is a feeling here that Mexico
holds the United States directly responsible for the incident.

The Automatic
Positively Saves Ice--We prove to you, when you call at the store, that Automatic Refrigerators are built to save ice—built on honor!This eight-wall construction (see picture above) is what keeps the heat out, and the cold in! That is the reason the Automatic uses so little ice compared with other refrigerators. It is this honest construction that has given the Automatic the name of being the best refrigerator made—that and its food-preserving and food-saving qualities, principally.And, the price is just as low as that some stores charge for "ice eaters." Step in when you're by the store. We will gladly show you and explain just how good the Automatic really is. Have one charged if you wish.

SOLDIERS PROMISE TO GIVE "CLASSY" SHOW

342ND PRESS CLUB WILL GIVE ENTERTAINMENT IN DIXON SATURDAY, JUNE 1

Camp Grant, May 24.—The people of Dixon are to have a real treat when the Press Club of the 342nd Infantry stages its Novelty Carnival and Ball in that city, Saturday night, June 1st.

The Press Club has gained envied popularity in camp and surrounding cities for the novelty of each entertainment. Something new is always ready and the individuality of its entertainers completes a whirlwind of pleasure.

Sgt. V. O. Winkenweder and Harry Fine have something entirely new to offer the Dixon people. A jazz, varet dance and carnival staged by the Press Club and assisted by the clever "Players Club" recently organized by Col. Jack Gallagher of Headquarters Co., will compose the program. An entire jazz band made up of singers, soloists and novelty entertainers, insures no let-up at any moment of the evening's entertainment.

Schneider and Dahl, "Syncopation's Own Personality Pair"; Bill Joyce, the whole camp's fiddler; Jack Gallagher, "Wacki, Wacki Woo's Father," and "Rheal" with his saxophone, and Don Austin with his saxophone, offer a singing, dancing and harmony act that is bound to please.

These two new clubs have joined hands to instill a perfect harmony throughout the boys of the entire regiment. It is their pleasure to entertain others with their camp quiffs and a distinguished officer recently said, "A soldier who can entertain is worth a squad of others."

After roll call some of us asked the Germans for clothes, or at least a place to dry ourselves, but Fritz could not see us for the dust on the ocean, and we just had to stand there and shiver till we shook the deck, almost. Then I went and sat down on the pipes that feed the deck winches. They had quite a head of steam in them, and I was beginning to feel more comfortable when I got a good clout alongside of the head for sitting there and trying to keep warm. It was a German garby, and he started calling me all the various kinds of schweinwunde he could think of, and he could think of a lot. Finally they mustered us all on another part of the deck, then drilled us down into the forecastle and read the Martial Law of Germany to us. At least, I guess that is what it was. It might have been the "Help Wanted—Dog Catchers" column from the Berlin Lokal Tagblatt for all most of us knew or cared. It shows what cards the Germans are—reading all those four-to-the-pound words to us shivering garbies, who did not give a dime a dozen whether we heard them or not. Fritz is like some other hot sketches—he is funniest when he does not mean to be. Every German is a vaudeville skit when he acts natural.

There were hammocks there, and we jumped into the mto get warm, but the Germans came down with their revolvers and bayonets and took the hammocks away, and poured water on the decks and told us to sleep there. They could not have done a worse trick than that.

Then they put locks on the port-holes, and told us that anyone caught fiddling with the locks would be shot at once. This was because we might sight a British or French man-of-war at any time, and as the Moewe was sailing under the British flag and trying to keep out of trouble, they did not want us at the ports signaling our own warships for help. If they had backed us, of the Allied ships and a fight we would have died down there like rats.

The Moewe had already captured the Voltaire, Mount Temple, Cambrian Range and the King George, and had the crews of these vessels between decks with us. These men told us how the Germans were treating them, and it looked to me as though the evening would be spent in playing games and a pleasant time would be had by all—not.

The crew of the Mount Temple were back working when the raider suddenly opened fire on them. Two or three men jumped into the water, and the Germans turned a gun on them while they were swimming and killed them. That was just a sample of what had happened to them.

The men now began running up and down in a line to keep warm, but I took a little run on my own hook and treated myself to as much of a once-over of the ship as I could. I do not believe the Moewe had more than a 3/4-inch armor plate, but behind that she had three rows of pig iron, which made about a foot in thickness. There was nothing but cable strung along the deck, and when I saw that I would have given anything to have had a crack at her with a 14-inch naval. And I sure wished hard enough that one of our ships would slip up on us, whether we were caught between decks or not. I went aft as far as the sentry would let me, and I saw that she had three spare 6-inch guns under the poop deck and two 6-inch pieces mounted on stern. The guns were mounted on an elevator, and when the time came they ran the elevator up until the guns were on a level with the poop deck, but otherwise they were out of sight from other ships.

The boys from the other ships told us that when the Moewe fired, it was a case for prayers, because she trembled like a leaf. Besides, they never knew what she was battling with, and I know myself that it is an awful sensation down there between decks figuring that any moment your ship will be hit amidships and the whole bunch of you sent West. They said that when the Moewe was about to go into action there would be a lot of yelling and running around on deck, and the Huns would lay below with their revolvers and bayonets or cutlasses and bulldoze the whole lot, shouting and poking with bayonets. They used to come down every so often and shout the schneidhude code at us and kick us and shove us around like cattle.

For our first meal they slung a big feed bag half full of ship biscuit—hardtack—to us and some dioxies for tea. After this festival we began roaming up and down the deck again because it was the only way to keep warm. I guess we looked like some of the advertisements in magazines, where they show a whole family sitting around a Christmas tree in their underwear and telling each other that Wohis Unions—The Roomy Kind—were just what they wanted from Santa. Only we did not have any Christmas tree to sit around. We must have looked funny, though, and I would have had a good laugh if I had not been so cold.

We could not go to sleep because the decks were wet, nor could we sit down with any comfort for the same reason. Besides, we thought we might buck up against a British or a French cruiser at any minute, and most of us thought we would stay up and get an eye full before we started for Davy's well known locker.

About two bells the following morning the Moewe's engines began to groan and shake her up a bit, and w could hear the blades jump out of the water every once in a while and tear away. She went ahead in this way for some time, and we were hoping she was trying to get away from a cruiser, and some of us were pulling for the cruiser to win and others hoping the Moewe would get her heels clear and keep us from getting ours.

The Huns were running up and down the deck yelling like wild men, and one of our men began to yell, too. He was delicious, and after he yelled a bit, he jumped up and made a pass at the sentry, who shot at him, but missed. The shot missed me, too, but not very much. Then they dragged the delicious man up on deck, and Lord knows what they did with him, because we never saw him again. But we did not hear any sound that they might have made in shooting him.

Then the Huns began shelling and they kept it up for some time. About the time the firing quit, this man Mallen—the chap who had his glasses broken—was walking up and down the deck holding the one lens to his eye, when he bumped up against a sentry on his blind side. The sentry began to smash him all over the head. He knocked him down several times, and split his lip for about four inches with the butt of his revolver. The rest of us were just aching to lay our hands on the sentry, but the other sentries warned us off with their revolvers, and one of them clipped me in the head with the hilt of his bayonet when I started forward.

When we picked Mallen up he had lost his monocle and was as blind as a bat, but as tough as ever. In a minute or two one of the men came up with his monocle. He had found it far away from where Mallen had been, and there was not so much as a scratch on the lens. Mallen was sure glad to get it. Part of the gold band that fitted over the nose was still on it, so we broke this off and rubbed it until the edge was smooth as the gold rim, and to cheer Mallen up a bit I told him about the Limey officer at "V" Beach who had twibled his monocle in the air and caught it in his other eye. Mallen said he would learn to do that if it took him a hundred years. He started to practice right away. Anyone who would have held on to the lens and not monkeyed with it, but that was not Mallen. He was throwing the glass into the air all the time and trying to catch it in his eye, when it was all he could do to hold it there like a monocle. I have seen him twibble it and let it drop a dozen times, and yet it never broke.

Then the Huns ordered us up on deck to see the ship they had been firing at, and when we came up the companion way they were just bringing the other ship's skipper aboard. It was the French collier St. Theodore, hove to off the starboard side with a prize crew from the Moewe aboard and wiggling to the raider. I looked around while we were taking the air and shivering, and I never saw a stronger watch than they were standing on the Moewe. There were two men up forward on the forecastle peak, one on the starboard and one on the port bow, one up in the crow's nest, about twelve on the bridge and four on the poop deck. I do not believe that gang could miss a splinter in the water, and every one of them had binoculars.

There was nothing to be seen on deck but the torpedo tubes up against the sea gates, with tarpaulins over them, and piles of life belts thrown on top of the hatches. On the bridge they had wicker baskets with carrier pigeons in them, and near the funnels they had live stock—a cow, pigs, dogs and chickens—

all caged in. Then the Huns began shouting, and they roused us below deck again. The place where we had been filled with smoke, from what or why I do not know, but it was almost impossible to breathe in it. When the smoke cleared up a bit the Marathon started again, for we were still in our underwear only. One of the boys had asked Fritz for clothing, and Fritz said the English had tough enough skins and they did not need clothing. Then he said: "Wait until you see what our German-winters are like."

The following morning the engines began to tear away again, and the guns started firing. After a while the firing stopped and the engines, too, and after about an hour they had the Old Man of the Yarrowdale aboard. She was a British ship chartered by the French and bound for Brest and Liverpool with a very valuable cargo aboard—aeroplanes, ammunition, food and automobiles.

When they roused us on deck again, the St. Theodore was still in sight, but she had the Yarrowdale for company. Both were trailing behind us and keeping pretty close on. While we were on deck we saw the German sailors at work on the main deck making about ten rafts, and when they began to place tins of hardtack on the rafts, a tin to each, we imagined they were going to heave us over the side and let us go on the rafts. But instead, they began telling us we would land in the States, and then they roused us between decks again.

We had only been there a short time when some of the German officers came down and asked if any of the men would volunteer to go firing on the Yarrowdale, and we almost mobbed them to take us. They began putting down the names of the men who were to go, and I talked them into putting mine down too. Then I felt about five hundred pounds lighter.

LESS MEAT IF BACK AND KIDNEYS HURT

Take a glass of Salts to flush Kidneys if Bladder bothers you—Drink lots of water.

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked, get sluggish, clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease.

on the face and hands. The little girl was playing with her cousin, Kenneth, Goddard, and her sister, Esther, aged 9, in the rear of the Goddard home. Bertha and Kenneth tried to enter the coal shed, which was locked, and dropped through the coal chute at the top. Fire broke out in the shed. The Goddard boy crawled back through the chute, after receiving burns. He did not give the alarm, but hid.

Thompson, whose home is nearby, saw flames, and with his bare hands tore the board walls from the building. He was too late to save the child, and when members of the fire department drew her body from the flames it was charred. The girl's father is E. L. Chamberlain, a farmer near Carr, Colo.

BRODERICK WENT TO CAMP ALONE

Private M. J. Broderick who was arrested at Amboy for remaining away from Camp Grant after his pass had expired, returned to the camp last evening. His captain wired Sheriff Phillips to let the young man make the trip alone if he thought he could be trusted to go at once to the camp. Broderick showed proper penitence for his action and therefore was put on his honor to return to the camp at once.

AMBROSE THE IDLER

By Harriet Whitney Durbin

WILLETTA RAMSEY'S first chance upon a fragrant, outbursting June morning, and from that time the big, merry-eyed German, with his thatch of yellowish hair and his shiny, shabby blue velvet smoking jacket, was associated in her mind with wastefully lavished sunshine and the irresistible, delicious blitheness of the opening days of the month of roses. He was also connected, vaguely, with a regretful sense of the unknown of circumstances in marring so genial a season with the annoyances of poverty; for, with toes stubbed against her own snags and cobble stones, she could but feel for him, knowing what he had undergone on the previous evening.

Far-reaching and strident was Mrs. Schuck's voice, and when, she turned it upon a member of her own household in the flat above it was impossible for Willetta to refrain from sympathizing with the unseen culprit. The culprit, she gathered, had in some manner allowed his "job" to get away from him, and had appeared upon the scene with his objectionable dog and his littering musical instruments, to add to the labors of his sister in the matters of cooking and cleaning.

For days the weather was ideal. Gold-lighted mornings grew into sunny-soft afternoons, which slipped to blushing-rose twilights; light, glittering showers washed the air clean of undue heat, and the dewy nights were like moist velvet.

Sometimes, too, of evenings, Ambrose carried his violin down to the tiny porch, and brimmed the garden-scented dusk with the sweetness of olden melodies, while Willetta rocked happily in her camp rocker and Bouncer sat, in blissful security, between the two. Here Ambrose smoked his long pipe, which he was not privileged to do in the rooms above, where Mena's revered curtains must have first consideration—and Bouncer tracked up the clear boards with unrebuked lawlessness.

So tranquillizing to the spirit did Willetta find these intervals of rest and companionship that she allowed them to banish from her mind the imp of trouble lurking around the corner, until one miserable day when the imp landed upon her doorstep, and she knew that she must either do battle with and vanquish it, or be swept into a hopeless bondage of dependence.

The little fancy-work shop in which she had invested her small inheritance—against the counsel of her kinspeople—was not proving a foot plank to the safe prosperity of which she had dreamed. Instead, it was slipping uneasily towards the quagmire of debt and disaster. There was yet a balance due upon her last purchase of goods, which she saw little prospect of making up, and her rent-money, tardy by a few days last month, was liable to be lacking entirely on the coming rent day, which was now so close at hand that Mrs. Schuck's nose was already beginning to point suspiciously at Willetta as though scenting out more deferred payments.

And just then it was that the season of those cheery receptions upon the tiny back porch came to a sudden bleak ending. Ambrose was leaving. "It is time that I should find work," he told her, holding her hand very closely in his kind clasp. "Too long have I idled, maybe; but now must I go."

"Where?" faltered Willetta, feeling that two troubles instead of one were knocking at her door.

"Where I find the work," he answered, looking wistfully at her shadowed face. "I have heard that across the river they open a new summer-garden, and need the musicians; that is my business, the music. Ach, Miss Willetta, I cannot now make you know how your kindness has given me happiness. Sometime—maybe—if you—if I— He had grown confused; he stammered and his broad face had turned deeply red. "Good-bye—the kind All-Father make you always safe," he ended, abruptly, with a hasty pressure of her hand, and was gone, with his violin and his little white dog.

The keynote of Willetta's heart's melody had suddenly broken—its music was flat, flavorless.

Rent day fell, and Willetta's one hope—a doubtful one at best—of meeting her obligation by the collection of a sum long due her, came to naught. Long and loudly Mrs. Schuck rated her helpless tenant, ending with a splintery notice that in the absence of payment inside of three days, Willetta must vacate.

Thus, with a jerk, Willetta found herself between two pleasing prospects—that of being cast, homeless, upon the street, and the almost equally humiliating one of seeking assistance from her kinsfolk—those who had predicted for her, should she follow her own obstinate course, the very disaster that had now befallen her. Unpromising as it was, she chose the latter, and with a sensation of having slipped helplessly from her plank into an unfamiliar swamp, made ready for her brief journey to Milleville.

Silas Ramsey, Willetta's eldest brother, reminded her of the wise counsel he had once wasted upon her. "And you could have helped me a lot with the work," complained Theodosia, a plodding, incapable woman, whose domestic tasks always loomed ahead of her like specters.

"You'd much better stay here, Will, and help Dozey," advised Silas. "I couldn't let you have the money if I wanted to ever so bad, and I doubt if it'd do any good anyway."

The second brother, Mark, whose wife was a capable manager, but lacking in patience with dependent sisters-in-law, advised her to make her home with Silas and his family.

"Every penny I've got is in 'Mandy's hands,'" Mark informed her, "and you couldn't pry it out with a crowbar. I might get you a school maybe toward fall; but you'd better hitch on to Silas's folks till then."

With this rosy future ahead, Willetta journeyed back to Mrs. Schuck's to dispose of her dwindled stock, and thus to resign her faithless foot-plank for good and all.

"Oh, for a scrap of fire and a cup of tea!" she yearned, feeling hastily in her handbag for the kitchen door key. Scurrying around to a sheltered side-porch, Willetta emptied the contents of the bag upon the step. The key was missing. There was no way to get into her quarters from below stairs, except through the kitchen door. She would have to appeal to her hardhearted landlady.

It was but a little after seven o'clock—Mrs. Schuck could not have

"I like you—yes," she admitted.

retired; but she had evidently gone to the home of her married daughter, where she often visited in the evening, sometimes even remaining over night.

Willetta found every shutter hooked securely from the inside; nor could any rattling of her kitchen doorknob budge the stout lock—it held firm and fast.

With a sob which broke from her in spite of her stern determination not to weep, Willetta's spirits dropped to the point of terrified despair. Upon the other side of that heartless little door was shelter—but she was outside—and alone. She held her wet-gloved hands over her face and sat listening to the continuous gurgling drip at the porch eaves until, after a time, out of the sibilant rain-noises grew other sounds—slow footsteps clumping indistinctly somewhere, and, nearer at hand, a quick, light rustling through drizzly, weedy things. She clutched her hands together and arose, as a brisk little white object dashed around the corner and upon the porch with a sudden genial "Yap" of greeting.

"Bouncer—Bouncer," called a voice, mellowly deep, and sturdily tramping up to the porch came a tall, solid form, bearing a grip, a violin case and a stout umbrella.

"Ach, the little porch lady!" cried the voice genially, as the umbrella went heading to one side, and a large, warm hand reached out impulsively. "Good it is to see you once again! But wait!" He felt that her hand was cold and wet, and discerned in the vague darkness the dragged, floppy hat and moist, clinging jacket.

"Something is wrong—is it not so?"

A quivery, half-whispered "Yes" made him draw closer to her with a protecting air.

"Tell it all then to me, dear Miss Willetta."

The kind, strong voice gave Willetta a feeling as if something comforting had been wrapped about her chilled spirit. She told him the whole dismal little history up to the climax of the lost key and the absence of Mrs. Schuck.

"So?" queried Ambrose, when she was through. "And Mena said you must go out of your little shop? Ach—I did not know—not one word! Yet you should not be sad—there can be many roads out of trouble; one will you find. But come once, Miss Willetta, you must not longer stay in the wet. Mena has gone without doubt to Setta's. The little baby, it is sick; but that keeps us not out in the rain—I have the latch key; come."

Up the outer stairway journeyed Willetta again, this time with hope-winged footsteps. There was an agreeable smell in the air from Mena's fresh bread and coffee cake.

"So," commented the musician comfortably, pulling forward a motherly rocker with rounded lap of cushions for Willetta. "You should put off the little wet shawl and bonnet. Now we should have a little supper, with some tea and a pot of plums from Mena's jam closet. Also I smell the new baked bread and coffee Kuchen. Some of them, too, will we have, will we not?"

"Yes," admitted Willetta; "but I am afraid Mrs. Schuck will be angry."

"Ach, yes," agreed Ambrose, easily; "but angry will she be any way, that I have come back once more and have not the job."

"Oh," sympathized Willetta, "you didn't get the place? Now, that is too bad."

"No," contradicted Ambrose; "it is not bad; other jobs are there yet, but you—if I should not have come back you would keep sitting on the wet chair in the rain, waiting for Mena, and a fine cold would you have received. That I would not like. I like not that any harm should come ever to you—Ach, my little Miss Willetta, you could not know what it was I felt when I tell you good-bye on the porch, nor that it is of you only I have thought for this so long."

"I have not meant to say this now—I should wait yet awhile, I tell myself; but so little you looked in the rain—and so wet—and Mena has both-ered you about the rent—Ach, let me save you all trouble, will you not? You like me—is it not so, little Willetta?"

"I like you—yes," she admitted, shyly; "but I—we—must not think only of that. You are poor, like myself, and are new out of work. We'd have to wait until you had something certain to depend on—"

He was looking at her with curiously inquiring eyes.

"But you would come—you would marry me—if I had but a little home, the small pay?"

"I would marry you," declared Willetta, in a burst of reckless loyalty, "if we had to live in a dry goods box—just so we could pay the rent for it and be sure of tea and coffee cake—and a bone for Bouncer! But you haven't the box, yet, and you couldn't ask Mrs. Schuck to let us both stay with her—especially when I owe her for the rent."

"You think," he said, "if I find not a job we must ask Mena if we can stay with her? It is not so, little Willetta; though I find no job, yet can we live. The house and the shop and the three little rooms you live in, all are mine—and enough of the money I have I that we should not want, though I do no work for years. My job it is not that I play in the band with the others—it is the band I lead."

"Oh," marveled Willetta; "you are a musical director?"

Ambrose nodded. "Professor" do they call me. Also I compose a little—some small sad songs; and very well do they sell. From one season's work do I make more money than I should spend in one year. Only for a little rest-time, I like not to be idle. One engagement in this spring I would not keep; it was the kind that is named 'bum.' Mena was angry that I should quit it—almost my head she made off—ha-ha-ha!"

"Mena is like some dogs—she makes much bark, but her bite, it would not hurt a little cat—only that Bouncer will she hit with the broom. The house she keeps for me, and makes all clean and nice. The tongue, she could not keep it still; she must scold, but that makes nothing! The shop rent she will collect for me; that is why I did not know about your trouble, little Willetta; otherwise, you should not have been bothered."

"Never mind; that's over," joked Willetta. "I shan't have to go and live with Silas and Dozey, even for a while, if you let me keep the shop until—"

"Until you shall come to keep the house for me, my little sweetheart," finished Ambrose, moving his chair beside hers. "That will be not long. Mena says always, when I marry she shall live with Setta, and glad will I be for the change; my pipe can I smoke where the curtains are and Bouncer will not be hit with the broom."

"I should say not," sandwiched Willetta.

"And my wife shall be beside me all the time! So you shall now have your shop, my Willetta, but see you to it that when the rain is cleared and the sun once again shines, then is it to be our wedding day!"

well to melt cheese. Cook macaroni in boiling water until tender. Stir cooked macaroni into hot sauce and bake in slow oven about thirty minutes.

Gingered Apples—Select tart apples, pare, core and cut in small pieces. To five pounds of the chopped apples allow an equal amount of sugar, five ounces of ginger root, three lemons, and one pint of water. Bruise the ginger root, add the water and let simmer for a couple of hours, adding more water when needed, getting a strong extraction of the ginger. Wipe the lemons, grate the rind and extract the juice. Tie ginger in a piece of cheesecloth and add to the pint of ginger water, with the lemon juice and rind, the sugar and apple. Boil all together until the pieces of apple look clear.

Meat Stew with Dumplings.
Make a stew from a cheap cut of meat cut into small pieces, potatoes, and such other vegetables as are desired. Thicken with a little flour diluted with cold water. Serve with dumplings made as follows:

Mix and sift one cup of flour, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, and one-fourth teaspoonful of salt. Work in with the fingers one teaspoonful of butter; add gradually one-third of a cup of milk, or a little more if needed. Roll out one-half inch thick and cut with a biscuit cutter or in square pieces. The dumplings may be steamed, baked like biscuits, or cooked with the stew. In the latter case remove enough liquid to permit the dough to be placed on the meat and vegetables.

Health Notes.
In view of the possibility of occasional accidents in households, it is convenient for mothers to have a small emergency basket containing articles likely to be useful at such times. The contents of such a basket should consist of some lint, cotton wool, oil of linseed, a few prepared bandages, varying in width from one-half to three inches, a roll of adhesive plaster, some safety pins, ordinary needles and thread, some oiled silk, a pair of scissors, a nurse's dressing forceps, a bottle of carbolic oil of the strength of one part of carbolic acid to eighty of oil, a bottle of vaselin and a bottle of tincture of iodine.

Cereals and other food should be kept in glass jars or tin cans whenever possible. This will keep rats, mice and vermin away.

FOR THE HOUSEWIFE.
Soak new stockings in salt and water before wearing them. This preserves them.

After baking bread do not allow it to lie flat, as it becomes soggy. To keep white silk from turning yellow when it has been washed always let it dry in a dark place.

To take rust from the bottom of an iron shake a little salt on a piece of paper and rub the iron on this. It will also remove all other iron grease and dust.

If ink is spilled on the tablecloth immediately melt a candle, taking some of the tallow, spread it over the ink patch and leave it to dry. Afterward wash the tablecloth and all traces of ink will disappear.

The dirtiest of clothes may be easily whitened by using a few drops of peroxide in the water the clothes are boiled in. It will be necessary to use the same amount of soap and soap powder that is generally used, but the peroxide will whiten them without any hard scrubs.

Needlework Notes.
Bags have come to be important accessories of dress. Nowadays a woman has as many bags as a man has pockets; but, of course, she is privileged to carry but one bag at a time. The creative ability has surely been overlooked by some persons, according to the variety of the bags seen on the market. There is scarcely a shape, a material, a design or a combination of colors that has not been brought into service.

The novel thing of the moment is the lampshade bag. This, as its name implies, is made of a lampshade, the wicker variety. The shade, of course, is inverted, the narrow end forming the bottom of the bag. The inside of the shade is lined with silk of any color one prefers—the handsome figured silks are very good for the purpose. Allow sufficient silk to form a deep bag. If the shade is not very deep the silk can make up for what the shade lacks in depth. Finish the top with a hem and through it run cords to form the handle. Weight the ends of the cords with bead tassels and take one of the tassels at the bottom of the bag. The result will be a bag that looks as though it came from the Orient.

Recipes.
Quick Coffee Rolls—One pint pastry flour, one teaspoonful salt, one heaping teaspoonful baking powder; sift twice, add tablespoonful of butter or lard, work in well, add milk to make dough not too soft. Roll very thin, sprinkle with cinnamon and sugar, roll up tightly, cut in inch-thick slices, place in pan like biscuits. Delicious with tea, coffee or cocoa. These will unroll nicely when done.

Cheese Cakes—One and one-half cups cottage cheese, one-third cup sugar, two tablespoonfuls cream, grated rind and juice of one lemon, three eggs, one-half cup currants and citron, one tablespoonful melted butter. Press cheese through colander or potato ricer. Add sugar, cream, melted butter, juice and rind of lemon, eggs beaten light, the fruit cut into small pieces. Line small pans with pie crust, fill with this mixture and bake about fifteen minutes, or longer if necessary. When done sprinkle with powdered sugar and serve while warm.

Macaroni Omelet—Two teaspoonfuls of bread crumbs, a quarter of a pound of macaroni, one large Spanish onion, pepper and salt, piece of butter the size of an egg help make a delicious omelet. Put a layer of crumbs, boiled macaroni and onion, then beat up two eggs mixed in sweet milk, pour over the ingredients, and bake in the oven.

Danger of High Collars.
That high collars tend to produce nervous headaches among both men and women is a recent discovery of a well known Parisian physician. Quite accidentally the doctor's attention was directed to the very high and very tight style of collars worn by a patient who was always complaining of headaches and giddiness. The collar was laid aside, thus removing the compression of the neck, and the patient's headaches and giddiness disappeared, says London Tit-Bits.

Struck by this result, the doctor paid particular attention to the kind of collars worn by his "headache patients," and in very many instances the change to lower and easier-fitting collars brought immediate relief. In the case of women wearing high, stiff neckbands it was found that doing away with these had a similarly beneficial result. The doctor declares that nobody with any tendency to headache should wear high collars.

Health Notes.
The following hints may be of help to those who suffer from sleeplessness:

Anything which soothes the nerves will, as a rule, induce sleep.

It is well to have a glass of milk standing by the bed. If wakefulness comes this should be sipped very slowly.

Room of sufficient ventilation in a room often causes sleeplessness, but the air should never be permitted to blow directly on a bed.

One of the best remedies for a nervous woman is to take a hot bath just before going to bed. The body should be immersed for fifteen minutes in water that is hot without being exhausting.

Vanilla Crab Apple Jelly—When putting up crab apple jelly get ten cents' worth of vanilla beans from any drug store. When the juice is strained and measured throw in the piece of vanilla bean and let it boil until jelly is made. It gives apple jelly a fine and delicate flavor.

Can See Backwards.
The hare can see objects behind as well as in front. Its eyes are large, prominent, and placed laterally. Its power of seeing things in the rear is very noticeable in coursing, for, though the greyhound is mute while running, the hare is able to judge to a nicety the exact moment at which it will be best to double. The graffe, which is a very mild animal, is approached with the utmost difficulty on account of its eyes being so placed that it can see both ways with equal facility. This faculty enables it to direct with great precision the rapid storms of kicks with which it defends itself.

The Pillar Dollar.
A pillar dollar was a silver coin of Spain, with large pillars on one side, coined at a very early day for circulation in Mexico and other Spanish colonies. It circulated freely in the United States for many years, and was known as the Spanish or Mexican dollar. It was an honest silver dollar, full weight and handsomely engraved.

TAKING SERVICE EXAM. IN DIXON

Twenty-nine young men, most of whom are from out of town, took the U. S. civil service examination for departmental clerk at Washington at Co. Supt. Miller's office today. The examination was in charge of Austin Smith of the local civil service board. One young lady from Iowa came to take the test.

Look and Feel Clean, Sweet and Fresh Every Day

Drink a glass of real hot water before breakfast to wash out poisons.

Life is not merely to live, but to live well, eat well, digest well, work well, sleep well, look well. What a glorious condition to attain, and yet how very easy it is if one will only eat the morning inside bath.

Those who are accustomed to feel ill and heavy when they arise, splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, or, instead, feel as fresh as a daisy upon opening the sluices of the system each morning and flushing out the whole of the internal poisonous stagnant matter.

Everyone, whether ailing, sick or well, should, each morning, before breakfast, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast. While you are enjoying your breakfast the water and phosphate is quietly extracting a large volume of water from the blood and getting ready for a thorough flushing of all the inside organs.

The millions of people who are bothered with constipation, bilious spells, stomach trouble, rheumatism; others who have sallow skins, blood disorders and sickly complexions are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store which will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone a pronounced crank on the subject of internal sanitation.

Business Details
On motion of Comrade Bolles, seconded by Comrade Lowry, the secretary was instructed to append to the invitations to the next reunion a request that the recipient reply, stating whether or not he will be able to attend the banquet. Those who fail to comply with the request will be dropped from the mailing list and will receive no further reports of the meetings.

Comrades Haberer read the following resolutions and moved their adoption, both being unanimously
passed by rising vote:

RESOLVED, that the grateful appreciation of the members of the Thirteenth Illinois Infantry Association be and is hereby extended to the Woman's Relief Corps of Dixon, for their generous hospitality in furnishing a free banquet to our members, at this fifty-seventh anniversary of muster into the United States Service.

As an organization, we shall have but a few more meetings, and it is indeed gratifying to return to the place of the birth of the regiment and find the camp fires still burning, and friends of our youth strewing flowers across our paths in the evening of our days.

RESOLVED, that a vote of thanks
be extended to our chaplain, Rev. F.
D. Altman, and the trustees of the Lutheran church for the donation of the use of the basement in their church, with its splendidly arranged appliance for banquet purposes,
without charge or cost.

This kind favor is greatly appreciated by the members of the Thirteenth Illinois Infantry Association.

President Noble presented and moved the adoption of the following resolution, a rising vote unanimously carrying it:

RESOLVED, that a vote of thanks
be extended to E. D. Alexander, general manager of the Illinois Northern Utilities Co., for courteous extended
Mr. Alexander, at the veterans' dinner at the Tavern, for which Landlord Rice had prepared a specially decorated table, had presented the eight ladies present with candy
and the gentlemen with cigars.

The executive committee, composed of Comrades Noble, Wyman
and Haberer, was unanimously re-elected at which the meeting adjourned until 8 o'clock, when a bountiful banquet was tendered the members and their wives by the W. R. C.
The spread was served in the basement of the Lutheran church and during the meal music was furnished by Miss Myrtle Rice, pianiste, and a quartette composed of Mesdames Balloun and Read and Messrs. Elmer Rice and Clinton Fahrney.

Evening Session
The evening session was most interesting. The quartette sang a number of patriotic selections, Miss Mary Hantz presiding at the piano.
Before President Noble called to order, and during the evening they continued to entertain. But little business was transacted in the evening, the most important detail being the report of Sec. Treas. Hevenor:

Receipts
Registration $ 8.00
By mail 33.95
Total $41.95

Expenditures
Postage $ 3.93
Printing 4.50
Telegraph 1.25
Music 8.00
Pianist 1.00
Total $18.65

The balance of $23.27 was tendered Mr. Hevenor for his faithful services. Letters were read from George Drake, Harry Van Houten, James Cliggett, L. E. Hawley and Jack Mattus, and addresses were delivered by Dr. Altman, Mrs. Gale of Chicago, and County Judge John B.
Crabtree, whose father was a member of the regiment.

During the meeting Secretary Hevenor reported the following on his mailing list:
